This published Mid-Century Modern masterpiece by famed architect Marcel Sedletzky is nestled on a 1.3 acre secluded hillside among the oaks. Enter into this open modern glass home and be enveloped in natural light from the TEMPERED floor-to-ceiling windows providing views into the wooded canyon showcasing rain storms and the abundance of wildlife/birds. The main floor offers a remodeled upper-level living area with exposed redwood ceiling complementing the hand-sawn redwood walls built by Sedletzky himself. Walk down the cantilevered floating stairs into the large, private, post-adobe style living room to sit around the custom fireplace featuring a modern flame presentation. This is the very room where Joan Baez and Bob Dylan entertained their friends with private concerts and made special memories.
